Keep it Sweet

Sweet flavors are great candidates for pairing because with the addition of another note, whether spicy, salty, sour or bitter, it gives a new complexity that can be lacking in sugary treats. In fact, McCormick's 22nd Edition of Flavor Forecast dives into the Plus Sweet trend, highlighting sweetness balanced with other flavor favorites for a unique twist on sweet.

SWEET + HEAT

Warming spices are a classic addition to sweet flavors– think apple pie, pumpkin spice and all things autumnal. To pack more of a punch, spicy additions like chilis and wasabi give sweet ingredients an unexpected and delicious twist. Examples include:

- Apples + Cloves
- Dates + Cardamom
- Strawberry + Habañero
- Chocolate + Chipotle

SWEET + SALTY

Salted caramel is everywhere for a reason: even a tiny pinch of salt makes sweet flavors shine! A few examples include:

- Caramel + Sea Salt
- Chocolate + Salted Peanuts

SWEET + SOUR

Sweet + sour products do not only increase serotonin levels, increasing satisfaction and happiness, but it can also enhance the taste. In fact, Prepared Foods reports a 113% increase in new tart/fruity bakery items. Examples include:

Bitter & Sour Bites

Bitter and sour profiles are hit or miss for some consumers, but when used thoughtfully they can make a bland dish sing and bring new layers of flavor to old favorites. These profiles are especially effective for cutting through fatty and/or sweet ingredients, but the key is moderation.

We've also seen interest in bitter and sour due to increased consumer interest in digestive health — think kombucha, green superfood supplements, sparkling probiotic/prebiotic drinks and more. In fact, a recent study showed that 1 in 4 consumers say digestive health is the most important aspect of their overall health.
